Due to great demand, Scott SWCD is holding second rain barrel sale this spring

Due to overwhelming demand, the Scott Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) in Jordan will be selling rain barrels a second time this spring. For those residents who didn't get barrels during the first sale in April, another opportunity to purchase these brown barrel-shaped rain catchers for homes and businesses is being offered.

Pre-paid orders for rain barrels must be placed by Friday, June 18. The cost is $75 (including tax), and residents may order more than one barrel during this sale. The barrels include all parts and are ready to install and use. Rain barrel pickup is scheduled from 9 to 11 a.m. Saturday, June 26, at the Scott County Fairgrounds (7151 190th Street West), Jordan. All orders will include instructions for placement and usage as well as benefits and suggestions for rain-barrel care. Cash or checks will be accepted, and all orders must be pre-paid prior to pickup. The deadline for ordering during this sale is Friday, June 18. Order early because quantities are limited.

The environmental benefits of rain barrels are many, including:

- Rain barrel-gathered water is not subject to community watering restrictions.
- Rain barrels provide naturally soft water with no additives to irritate your plants.
- You can save money on your water bill.
- This conservation effort reduces water pollution in our rivers and lakes by reducing stormwater run-off.
- You can save money on your sewage treatment bill by decreasing the amount of water going into the sewer system.
- This water-saving effort decreases energy consumption used to treat wastewater and delay building/expanding wastewater treatment plants.
- Instructions on placement and use will be provided at the pick-up site.
